About Queen Central

About QCONE

The origin of the creation of QCONE is the idea that investors and consumers can invest and manage as well as easily invest in start-ups using blockchain technology in business and consumption.

- QCONE as well as assist consumers to get used to using and buying cryptocurrencies in a very simple way The most simple for consumers except so far they have only heard of cryptocurrencies, are interested in them, but The solutions available on the market are too complex to use for them today.
- QCONE As part of our investment management services, we have diagnosed several factors: Display: So far, the apps provide the expected functionality, but they are too complicated, leading to confusion for users and hence, they give up using them. QCONE provides a simple interface and is suitable for users all over the world.
- KYC (AML) Process: The requirements of market regulators are very limited, but still necessary. In partnership with renowned law firms, we have developed KYC processes that strictly comply with all legal requirements and are easy to understand and comply with for our clients and investors. Payment: Customers from our target group use bank transfers and credit cards most often. Therefore, these options are available to us from the very beginning. The user makes the payment in the same way as he has been shopping in online stores for many years. Number of services and functions: Many applications and services have very complex functionality, providing users with various opportunities and products related to cryptocurrencies.
- We focus on simplicity so that our new users don't get overwhelmed, on the other hand we educate them and introduce new functions step by step, explain them thoroughly and guide our users. us by hand.

Ideal

The first project assumptions were made in December 2020. Over the next two years, members of the founding group QCONE Group studied and analyzed the financial markets thoroughly, and at the same time. understand the needs of investors and users of services and products in the current QCONE network.

As a result of many hours of meetings, discussions and analysis of financial markets using blockchain technology, the final product, which we call QCONE, was born. Work on it begins in December 2021 and includes the development of modern functions, architecture and technical solutions.

In 2022, the company officially exchanged with the organizations regulating cryptocurrency exchanges around the world and immediately gained a lot of satisfied investors and customers with the business and investment plan together. such as financial management service solutions, crypto assets,...

Future

We now know that many months of hard work were not in vain. Our ideas have been proven in practice. Now is the time to grow and scale to the community and loyal customers. In the next 6 months QCONE we want to get the first place on the list of websites that allow investors and friends to buy, sell and store cryptocurrencies and NFTs in a very simple and secure way on a wallet.queenpay.net.

Development

QCONE products and applications

The development of our QCONE products and applications was planned at an early stage and has now been done consistently by us for many months. In the dynamically developing decentralized finance and cryptocurrency market, we constantly monitor trends and user needs, making necessary adjustments. Our development plans are divided into two independent lines - development of the application and its functionality, and our range of services.

The development of the application involves constant adjustments to the functionality and continuously fine-tuning the smallest details to make it as user- and investor-friendly as possible. As part of this development, we also plan to introduce new functions, listening to user needs as they are most important to us.

To expand our reach means reach new customers. As planned, our application launched for the first time on Thialan market, immediately attracting a lot of fans. We've deliberately decided not to roll it out more widely, because providing the highest quality isn't just about translating apps into a certain language. Thanks to the years of experience of our founders and staff in the financial markets and e-commerce, we know that each country is governed by its own laws - starting with the habits of our customers. customers, their favorite form of payment through the expectation of technical support. So entering a new market requires a lot of preparation, because it's the first impact that matters and we can't screw it up.

Technology

Unlike many other projects in the cryptocurrency investment and decentralized financial management services industry, from the outset, we provided technical support to a qualified external organization. We didn't bet on our IT team for a variety of reasons - starting with the time it took to assemble it and ending with dramatically increased costs. Our app is created and supported by IT company Queen Pay Financial SJC. with many years of experience, specializing in providing fintech and banking solutions. Thanks to this from the outset, it has been vitally created according to the highest standards of banking-grade security and as we all know the safety of transactions and customer funds is paramount. Long-term contracts protect us from unexpected increases in costs and provide us with full assurance of the stable and uninterrupted operation of our systems. They are continuously monitored, reproduced in multiple independent locations, and scanned for ongoing security. In addition, our secure protocols for accessing funds (including cloud wallets) have been developed to the highest level used in the financial markets.
